At Our Tourist Park

Another pot luck park picnic was held in the dining room on Wednesday evening. Every tenant in the park except three were present. According to the heavily laden table we sat down to it looks like folks can prepare just as delicious food in tents and trailers as they can in their homes. Thirty-five in number were counted. Everyone seems to enjoy these park parties a lot.

Well, all good things seem to end some time and that's just what happened to our Wednesday night community dances. I'm sure everyone has enjoyed these evenings and we all join in extending our thanks to those who made them possible. Special thanks to the Community Chest for sponsoring them, to the orchestra for their fine music, to Carl Bergman for calling the square dances, to Coach Dan Devine and Betty Robertson for supervsing the crowd, to Mr. and Mrs. Meredith for their watchful eye both inside and outside of the building, to John Downing for patroling grounds, to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clark for the use of their "mike" and their patience to be on hand to keep the sound adjusted, to those who furnished special numbers, Glenda Maxwell, Bill Walker and Lyle Peck for their solos, Ruby Lemon for her toe and tap dances, and Gene Collins for joining the orchestra with his sax, to Margaret Blossie for accompanist at the piano, well in fact to save time we just say Thanks All and hope for next year to be as successful.

Miss Nancy Dammann of Chicago, who has been around our park getting information and pictures for the Trailer Topics Magazine, was on hand Wednesday evening taking pictures of the dancers, our caretakers, special numbers, etc. Some of the pictures she took earlier of the park are here and we can be proud of this tourist park when it is published.

Free Chest X-Rays at Charlevoix Co. Fair September 12-16

People over the age of 14 years who plan to visit the Charlevoix County Fair Sept. 12-16 are being urged to take time out to get a free chest X-ray. Encouraging every eligible fair-goer to take advantage of the X-ray service, the district health department offers convincing reasons for having a chest check-up.

Getting X-rayed requires no disrobing and takes only a minute, according to Dr. A. F. Litzenburger, district health department director.

To insure a clear X-ray picture, however, adults will be asked to remove all metal, plastic, horn, glass, shell or ivory objects worn over the chest region he explained.

Chest X-rays given by the mobile unit will act as a testing device to sift out "suspicious" chests. Persons whose X-rays show possible trouble will be advised to visit their family physician for forther tests immediately. The reports on possible abnormalities will be sent in sealed envelopes.

STOP LATE BLIGHT ON POTATOES

Late blight has been reported on potatoes over most of Michigan during this past week. There has also been late blight reported on tomatoes in several counties. With cool nights and several rainy days, potatoes and tomatoes will be very susceptible to late blight.

Ed Rebman, county agent recommends that all tomato and potato growers spray or dust thoroughly with the proper fungicide for the balance of the growing season. If you spray, you can use either bordeaux mixture made up of 8 pounds of copper sulfate and 4 pounds of lime in 100 gallons of water or you may use fixed copper at the rate of 2 pounds metallic copper per 100 gallons of water or Nabam or Zineb according to manufacturer's directions. If you prefer to dust, you may use fixed copper at the rate of 7 pounds of metallic copper or Zineb according to manufacturer's dircetions. Whichever you use, be sure to do a thorough job of spraying or dusting to prevent late blight.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Squint's Drumming For Fair Play!

Squint Miller's mighty proud of the lot he owns that fronts on River Road—one of the prettiest spots around here.

He's been in a stew about it lately, though. Seems that trash-dumpers take one look at his property, stop their car or truck, and out goes a load of rubbish, spilling all over his place and the roadside, too. Wouldn't that make you mad?

Last night Squint dropped by the house. Over a friendly glass of beer, he tells me what he's done. "I put a couple of empty oil drums out there," he says, "with a big sign reading: 'If you must dump trash—use these—I like to keep my property clean!'"

From where I sit, Squint's sign should make any would-be roadside trash-dumpers pretty darned ashamed of themselves. Now and then some folks just have to be reminded that they ought to have as much regard for their neighbors' rights as they do for their own.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Korea Military Picture Improved; Senate Passes Mobilization Bill; Nation's Farmers in 'Fine Shape'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

KOREA:
Picture Changes

As the Korean war went into the third month military observers were inclined to comment "the picture has changed." And from available information it seemed the Communists had lost the power to mount great offensives involving thousands of men.

North Koreans launched one attack in force, its objective the city of Taegu, temporary capital of the South Korean republic and supply terminal for U. N. forces. It failed.

In some of the bloodiest fighting of the war, U. S. and South Korean troops smashed the offensive, held Taegu, and then proceeded to smash bulges all along their lines.

One of the most spectacular operations of the Korean battle was the concentrated air attack on an assembly area at Waegwan, involving 98 B-29's each loaded with 40 500-pound all purpose bombs. The load was dropped in a rectangle 7½ miles long and 3½ miles wide.

General MacArthur, commander of United Nations forces, in a report to the security council said: "The ground fighting continues to be of a most savage character." Our outnumbered forces face an enemy with "almost fanatical determination. The whole operation has assumed the character of a major campaign." He went on to ask for troops from other members of the United Nations.

To date the number accepted for action in Korea included Thailand 4,000, the Philippines 5,000, Turkey 4,500, and the United Kingdom 7,500. It will be several weeks before they can be brought to battle.

Military observers agreed that the picture had changed, but added that it will be "a long and hard winter in Korea."

FARMERS:
In Fine Shape

In a major speech at Carlisle, Indiana, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan asserted that the nation's farmers are in "fine shape" and took the opportunity to put in another plug for his farm plan.

Said the secretary: "Even allowing for increases in military food requirements we expect to have enough food so that civilians can continue consuming as much as in the past two years."

Farmers worried about possible economic controls of agriculture were reassured when the secretary said there are grounds for hope that such controls can be postponed for a considerable time or perhaps avoided entirely—"unless the emergency becomes much worse."

Talking up the Brannan plan, the secretary said we need a program which "solidly protects farm prices in case of a sudden slackening of demand" yet "puts an abundance of milk, eggs, and other perishables in the hands of consumers at attractive prices."

Brannan added that the present program of sliding-scale price supports fail to assure support on some of the most important commodities and offers no incentive for necessary production shifts.

WHEAT:
Highest Level

The agricultural department has fixed price supports for 1951 wheat at the same level as the 1950 crop —90 per cent of parity.

The department said 72,300,000 acres of wheat may be planted. If yields are average, this acreage would produce 1,150,000,000 bushels. This year's crop is estimated at 996,000,000 bushels.

In fixing the wheat support at the highest possible level, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan said:

"In view of the world situation, it is imperative that our supply of bread grains be maintained in strong position. Ample supplies will be a major factor in assuring reasonable food prices to consumers and our ability to meet our international food obligations.

"We believe the wheat-production and price-support programs have been developed to protect the interests of both producers and consumers."

The price support announcement had been expected, since Brannan is required by law to announce supports in advance of planting; winter wheat planting starts this month.

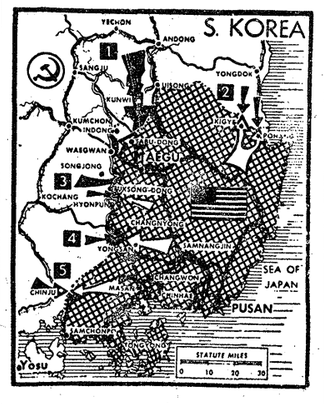

Only farmers who keep within acreage-allotment limits can get price supports.

CASUALTIES
Toll Is Heavy

The shattering realities of the Korean conflict reached into many American homes as the conflict went into its third month. More than 2,600 families in the cities and small towns and on the farms of the nation have been notified of servicemen killed, wounded or missing in action.

At the same time, a military spokesman said that Korean Communists had lost 50,000 killed.

Victories

U.S. troops won victories on nearly all fronts in Korea during the eighth week of the conflict. The big Communist push (1) on Taegu from the north was driven back; South Korean troops recaptured Pohang and Kigy (2); another bridgehead (3) across the Naktong was beaten back; American forces flattened the bridgehead (4) in the Yongsan area.

HOME-FRONT:
Mobilization Bill

The senate, by a vote of 85 to 3, passed a home-front mobilization bill which would give President Truman power to invoke wage-price-rationing controls and other anti-inflation curbs at any time.

The bill then went to a senate-house conference for the ironing out of differences between the senate measure and the bill passed earlier by the house.

In one point the bill was a defeat for the administration since it directed the President to put wage and price controls into effect simultaneously and virtually across the board if he invoked them at all.

The President has maintained he sees no need of wage-price curbs or rationing at this time. Further, the administration requested authority to control commodity speculation, but neither the house or senate versions contain such authority.

Both bills contain an anti-hoarding provision prohibiting the accumulation of excessive supplies of goods designed as scarce.

The administration suffered another setback in that its plea for retention of the provision which would let the President fix controls on selected commodities—meat, for example—in advance of any general controls program, was defeated.

AMERICA:
Angry People

Americans have never liked the evasive tactics and double-talk used by diplomats. That such a dislike still persists in the minds of average Americans was indicated by the increasing number of letters to national leaders and members of the United Nations demanding that Soviet delegate Jacob Malik be thrown out of the security council.

The letters asked why prolong the arguments in the security council? Why not expel the Soviet delegate, the people in the small towns of America wanted to know?

In answer to these questions Warren Austin, U.S. chief delegate to the United Nations, made the following statement:

"Our objective is peace. We do not find peace by throwing out the person with whom we must make peace.

"We must be firm in our principles. We must be strong. But we must also be patient.

"In the United Nations, we must keep trying to convince Mr. Malik and his government of their errors and of our peaceful intentions. Through the United Nations we can reach the peoples of the Soviet Union and of other countries.

"It is not the people, it is the 'ruling circles' that we encounter here. That creates a force of public opinion, backed by moral authority that opposes aggression—and even the Soviet dictatorship cannot ignore such a force.

"It is a strain for us to listen to the deceit that the Russian spokesman has poured out. But truth will prevail. Meanwhile, it is better for diplomats to get nervous indigestion than for young men to get shot."

That, Americans agreed, was straight talk and to their liking.

Suspect No. 8

A stocky 33-year-old American electrical engineer, who fled to Mexico when the F.B.I. began nabbing suspects in the Klaus Fuchs spy ring, had been arrested and charged with passing defense secrets to Russia.

Identified as Morton Sobell, he was the eighth American rounded up and charged with passing defense secrets to Russia. F.B.I. officials said he is a radar expert.

PEACE:
There Is Still Hope

The belief that there is still hope for peace, perhaps for only a short time, but still respite from world-wide war, is growing in many quarters. The hope is not one for permanent peace, but one of time, based on the belief in high diplomatic circles that the Russians are not ready for all-out war at the moment.

Diplomatic circles call it the "calculated risk" of war or peace. It is based on three major assumptions:

(1) Russia fears the effects of American atom bomb attacks.

(2) Russia does not possess an adequate stock pile of atomic bombs.

(3) Russia's industrial potential is still too weak in comparison with that of the western allies to risk a major conflict.

The first two of the assumptions are, of course, mere guess work. But there are statistics to back up the third.

For instance, America's steel production for 1950 is expected to exceed 71 million tons. Great Britain will produce around 16 million tons and the rest of western Europe approximately 24 million tons. Thus, the allies will produce a total of 111 million tons, compared with Russia's 22 million.

Russia also lags in the production of oil, another of the top essentials for war.

On these assumptions western Europe is planning a three-year rearming program. If the program is successful peace may be prolonged, but the world will be divided into two great armed camps.

RAILROADS:
Strikes Close Steel

The brotherhood of railroad trainmen and order of railway conductors went on strike against three terminal railroads, disrupting several of the country's steel arteries in the midst of the Korean war.

However, with the steel industry pressed to capacity to meet the needs of the stepped-up munitions program and the booming civilian economy, many sources predicted that President Truman would seize the lines.

The unions singled out key terminals in Louisville, St. Paul and Chicago and Republic Steel's switching terminal at Cleveland for the first display of pressure. About 1,000 men walked out for five days. Approximately 30,000 workers, including steelworkers, were made idle.

Negotiations between management and union representatives, with presidential assistant John R. Steelman taking part, produced no progress in the first 24 hours.

Observers believed the government would take drastic action before the situation deteriorated and crippled the nation's vital steel production.

INTELLIGENCE:
Headed by Smith

Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, former ambassador to Moscow, was named by President Truman as director of central intelligence. He will succeed Rear Adm. Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter around the end of September.

The agency's job is to gather and analyze reports from diplomatic, military and all other sources. Some members of congress were not surprised by Smith's appointment.

There had been demands in congress for a shake-up of the agency since the Korean war. Some legislators contended the United States was caught flat-footed by the invasion of South Korea by Communist troops.

General Smith, now 54, has had a long military career, which includes service as chief of staff to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower in World War II. Later he became ambassador at Moscow.

Johnson

Defense Secretary Louis Johnson (right), confers with Sen. Tom Connally, chairman of the foreign relations committee. Johnson has been under increased attack by foes of the administration and some Democrats for the way he handled his office during the year before the outbreak of fighting in Korea.

POLITICS:
Election Crossfire

The American political picture cleared somewhat with one definite trend in the spotlight: the voter faces a furious election year partisan crossfire. The issue will be U.S. foreign policy.

The bipartisanship in foreign policy as existed before the Korean war is a thing of the past. From now on voters will hear charges and counter-charges on U. S. foreign policy by congressional candidates.

Anna Eccleston,
Register of Probate. 36-3

Good Afternoon:

In the first place, I believe that we have a number of honest, courageous State Representatives of each political faith, who are trying conscientiously to do a good job for our State of Michigan. I do not agree with all of the ideas and methods that are being used, and have been used in the past, but I do not feel that all is bad, and I am sure that many clear thinking men and women are trying continually to make things better.

I am not a big businessman, and I do not have endorsements of widely publicized politicians or powerful statewide newspapers. I do own some farming land and a home in this district, and have been fairly successful, with the help of my family and friends, in operating farm implement outlets in Missaukee County. I feel that I have a sympathetic understanding of many of today's problems confronting the farmers, small businessmen and industrial workers.

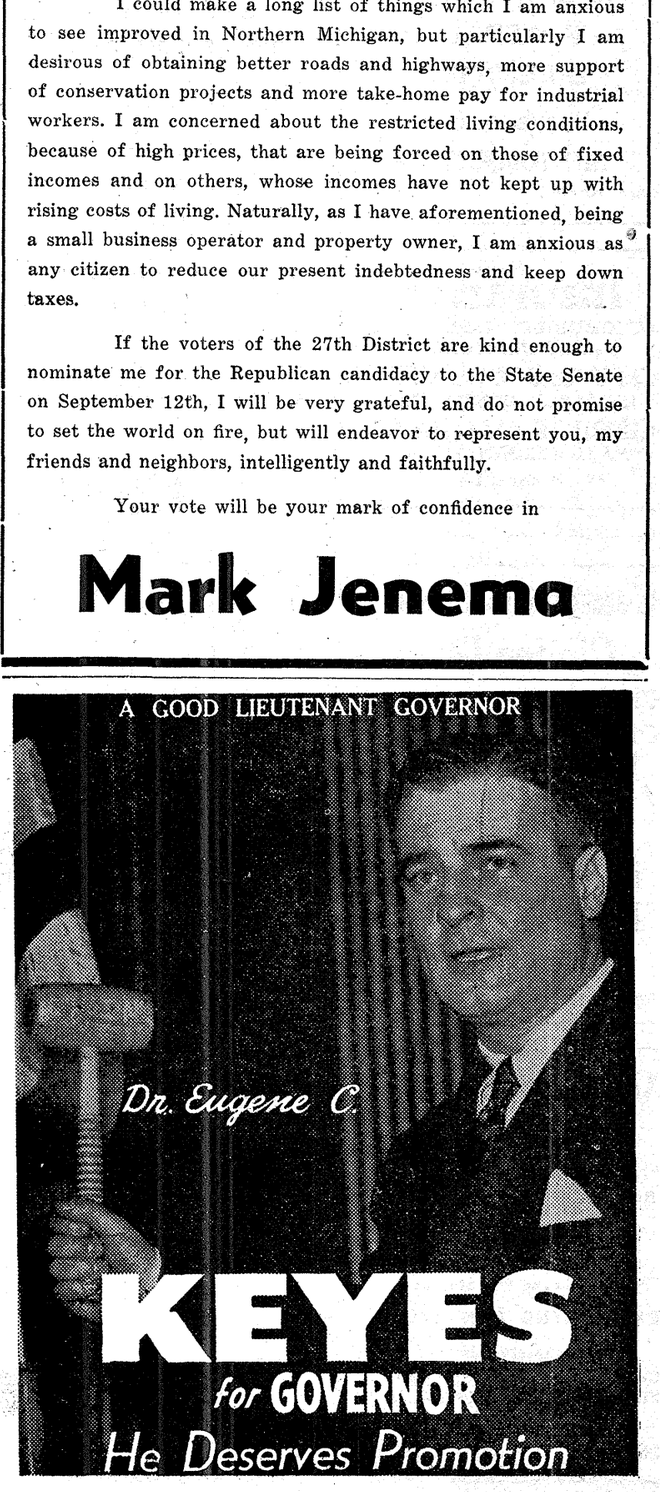

I have not had any appreciable amount of state-wide political experience, however, I have served in several capacities in the township and county government of Missaukee County, and have enjoyed a period of ten consecutive years in the Michigan House of Representatives. While serving in the House, I always tried to be consistent in my attendance to my duties of public trust and in casting my vote for the merits of the issue regardless of pressure.

I could make a long list of things which I am anxious to see improved in Northern Michigan, but particularly I am desirous of obtaining better roads and highways, more support of conservation projects and more take-home pay for industrial workers. I am concerned about the restricted living conditions, because of high prices, that are being forced on those of fixed incomes and on others, whose incomes have not kept up with rising costs of living. Naturally, as I have aforementioned, being a small business operator and property owner, I am anxious as any citizen to reduce our present indebtedness and keep down taxes.

If the voters of the 27th District are kind enough to nominate me for the Republican candidacy to the State Senate on September 12th, I will be very grateful, and do not promise to set the world on fire, but will endeavor to represent you, my friends and neighbors, intelligently and faithfully.

Your vote will be your mark of confidence in

Wrestling Gets Needed Impetus Through Video

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—To the joy of all true lovers of the dramatic arts, wrestling is—once again—on the road back.

With an assist from television, the ancient pastime is kicking its way out of the small clubs which have encoffined it hereabouts for several years and is heading for the massive arenas, where the seats extend back even beyond the smell of arnica and the cash registers tinkle merrily.

In addition, the miraculous TV has made it possible for a huge unseen audience to appreciate the endeavors from safe places, where it runs no risk of being struck by stray fragments of wrestlers.

Come wrestling night, it is possible—in fact, almost inevitable—for the mama, Willie, Hedwig, Franz and Gustav, none of whom know the difference between a hammerlock and a sack of oats, to sit before the screen and enjoy the writhings of the athletes, many of whom, it is whispered, don't know the difference either.

Once Muscle Men

This, as wrestling goes, is progress.

Back at the turn of the century, when silly people thought the atom could not be split, wrestlers were statuesque men of mighty muscle and ponderous grips. They could, and did, wrestle for five or six hours without a fall.

As an example of what went on in those days, there was the match between Hackenschmidt (the Russian Lion), the world champion, and Frank Gotch, an American athlete whose pet hold was to grab his opponent's foot painfully and braid his toes.

The two met Apr. 3, 1908, and pulled and tugged for 45 minutes before either man hit the floor. Then Gotch was thrown to the canvas, but bounced up before Hackenschmidt could follow his advantage. After an hour and 45 minutes, the crowd started yelling for more action. It was only after two hours that Hackenschmidt, panting and exhausted, announced he had surrendered the title.

Cue from Hamlet

The exhibit was a little more lively than looking at the Goethe and Schiller monument, but not as much fun as watching a woman run for a streetcar.

It is said that modern wrestling got its start one foggy night when a wrestling promoter wandered into a production of "Hamlet," thinking it was a burlesque house. He discovered to his amazement that people paid good money to see the thing, even though they knew the actors had been rehearsed and had a pretty fair idea of how the duel scene was coming out.

Man Gives Away $350,000 To Make Friends 'Happy'

AURORA, ILL.—James Powell, 74, a retired real estate and insurance man, decided to make his friends happy while he was still alive. So, he dealt out $350,000 to them.

He tried to make the gifts, which ranged from $100 to $50,000 anonymous, urging that he be identified only as "an unknown soldier marching away."

He requested that his name not be made public because he did "not want it to appear that I am doing what I am doing to gain publicity or glory."

But the gifts were too many to too many persons for the secret to be kept long. His name got out and several of his beneficiaries confirmed it.

Powell turned over $25,000 to Mayor Lloyd H. Markel, asking that the city start a fund for a municipal auditorium. The money is to be deposited with the city treasurer for use when needed.

The sum of $50,000 was given to Superintendent K. D. Waldo of East high school for a new building or an annex or school equipment.

Gifts of $100 to $10,000 were given to various individuals. He said they were persons "who were kind to me and my dear wife, Helen, who has passed on, and my dear sisters, also deceased."

Distant relatives were included in these gifts. Their benefactor has no immediate family.

The gift to the high school is to be a memorial to his sisters, Grace and Mina, and himself, all graduates of the school.

U.S. Patent Office Grants Its 2.5 Millionth Patent

WASHINGTON. — The United States patent office has issued 2.5 million patents—almost 160 years after granting No. 1.

No. 1 was signed by George Washington. It went to Samuel Hopkins of Vermont on July 31, 1790, for a method of "making pot and pearl ashes," generally known now as potash.

Patent number 2.5 million was signed by John A. Marzall, a Chicagoan recently named patent commissioner. It went to Francis M. Lambert, Narbeth, Pa., for a quick-acting mechanism for latching doors, particularly applicable to watertight doors for ships.

American Sailors Vocal in Protest Against New Garb

NORFOLK, VA.—The sailors of Uncle Sam's navy have told the big brass to "belay that new uniform."

The gobs were anything but unified on the question of the new regulation garb for enlisted personnel. It provided more scuttlebutt (navy for "gossip") than anything that has happened since the grounding of the "Big Mo."

Many of the sailors voiced salty disagreement with an order for roomier garb, complete with zipper to replace the customary 13-button trousers. Pockets, too, would be provided in the new uniforms.

D. R. Feria, steward, third class, from the Philippines, mourned the passing of the pants with 13 buttons representing the 13 colonies.

"Every part of our uniform stands for something," Feria said. "If they change it, they will take away some meaning that has been with the navy for 200 years."

An Atlantic fleet headquarters spokesman said privately that in a recent poll aboard the cruiser Columbus not a single man favored the new blues.

"The new jumper looks like a sack," said Apprentice Seaman Jack R. Cunningham, 19, of Ashtabula, Ohio, who serves aboard the minesweeper Peregrine. "I don't like the pockets in the pants. It looks too much like a civilian outfit. I enlisted to be a sailor and I want to look like one."

Seaman, first class, Bobby J. Davis, 19, of Athens, Ala., predicted that a sailor wouldn't have a girl in any port.

"If they're going to give us civilian clothes, they ought to take away our ID (identification) and liberty cards, too," Davis said. "We don't need them."

Davis is the ship's barber aboard the John Weeks. He broke his arm and picked up opinion on the new uniform in the hospital ward room.

"None of them like it," he said.

Duke, Finding It Costly To Live, Must Sell Land

LONDON, ENGLAND. — A large piece of Arundel, Sussex, must go under the auctioneer's hammer because the landlord, the duke of Norfolk was finding the tax burden "too heavy."

Included in the property to be sold were eight Georgian houses, borough secretary's office, the Westminister bank, county council baby clinic and public library and the fire station.

There were also the offices of the Southdown bus company, a petrol filling station, a jeweler's, a stationer's, a sweet shop, a wireless shop, a corn store, a printing shop, a butcher's, a baker's, and a house the council has requisitioned for flats. Among a number of tearooms up for sale will be Ye Olde Dairy and Honeybuns Guest house.

This is the fourth sale of Arundel property since 1947 by the duke, whose castle overlooks the ancient Highstreet in which 19 of the properties stand.

At the first sale he told his tennants that he was obligated to sell "on account of the heavy burden of present taxation."

A member of the firm of Newland, Tompkins & Naylor, who were handling the sale, said:

"The duke has felt it necessary to make further sales owing to the pressure of taxation. He just can't afford to live."

Longtime King of Hoboes Stripped of His Laurels

SAN FRANCISCO.—Jeff Davis, King of the Hoboes, has been stripped of his "credentials."

"My feet's just tied with all that stuff gone," Jeff complained.

He listed these losses: Some 350 honorary cards, including thumb-smudged testimony of his long reign over America's knights of the road; assorted photographs and a railroad spike, which he described as golden.

Jeff said they were in a light leather briefcase which disappeared when he was dining. He said that whoever filched the briefcase could keep the "golden spike," if he would return the credentials.

"When I go 'round the country," said the 67-year-old hobo, "they won't even know it's old Jeff 'less I have them papers."

Workmen Find Pocket Watch Lost More Than 50 Years

JOHNSTON, PA.—You can't keep a good watch down, especially the large, gold and engraved timekeepers that were treasured by the fashionable back before the turn of the century.

George Varner of Johnstown was given a gold pocket watch in 1892, a birthday gift from his father and engraved with his name. A few years later, the watch was lost.

Varner, later moved to Los Angeles and died in 1937, but before he died he relayed his confidence in the watch to his two sons, Clarence and Frank.

"It will turn up some time," he told them. And turn up it did. Workmen found it while clearing land at Grandview cemetery in the Johnstown district.

REPUBLICANS of MICHIGAN....

Let's ask ourselves a fair question

. . . . Which of Our Candidates for Governor can defeat Williams in the November Election?

THE ANSWER IS SIMPLE:

In winning re-election as Secretary of State in 1948, Fred Alger led the Republican ticket with 1,043,913 votes in the face of a Democratic landslide. THINK THAT OVER between now and election day . . . and remember this . . . it will take youth to win . . . Alger is young. It will take a vote getter to win . . . and Alger has proved his vote getting ability. Make no mistake . . . Fred Alger is the one man among our candidates for Governor who can bring us victory in November.

Let's not waste our valuable votes on a candidate who hasn't a chance to win the election. Let's get together and nominate the one man who has everything it takes to beat Williams! Youth . . . vigor . . . an honest record . . . and the proven ability to get votes . . . WITH FRED ALGER WE CAN WIN AN IMPORTANT REPUBLICAN VICTORY IN NOVEMBER!

Quitter Makes Good

Lesson for September 10, 1950

UNLESS THAT boarding house in Antioch was different from other boarding houses, you could hardly have a private quarrel in it. There would be some inquisitive people who would notice when voices were raised, and who could not resist the temptation to listen.

Dr. Foreman

One of the quarrelers was none other than the famous Apostle Paul, and the other was his best friend Barnabas. At least, Paul and Barnabas had been good friends up to that day.

After that day's argument we do not know that they ever saw each other again. Paul never mentioned the incident, but the story got around, and Luke put it into his book of Acts.

* * *

Young Man Seeks Position

THE ARGUMENT was all about a young man named John Mark. Young people do not always realize how often they are discussed by their elders, or how much those discussions affect their lives. A young man applies for a job (which he would rather call a "position") and he either gets the job or he does not. But he never sees the files. He never hears the conversations about himself. He never knows just what remark got him the job—or cost him the job, as the case may be. So John Mark may never have known just what Paul and Barnabas said about him.

The facts were plain. John Mark was a native of Jerusalem, son of a woman at least well-off enough to have a large house of her own. He was some relative of Barnabas, perhaps a nephew. (Tradition says he was the young man in embarrasing circumstances described in Mark 14:51-52.) When Paul and Barnabas set off on their first missionary journey together, this John Mark went with them as a general assistant.

All went well at first. But when the party landed on the hot steamy shore of Pamphylia, and when the missionary expedition was about to take off over the high lonesome ranges through bandit country, John Mark left the party and took the first boat back to home and mother.

* * *

Two Bosses

WE HAVE no idea why he went. Maybe he had good reasons, maybe not. Anyway, we do know that he quit. And that was all Paul wanted to know. A new missionary party was being made up, and Barnabas wanted to take his young relative along again. But Paul could not see it.

Why take a man who had already fallen down on one job? Why take an assistant that could not be depended upon? The argument between Mark's two bosses boiled down to this: Paul judged their assistant on past performance. It was all he had to go by. Barnabas judged Mark by his love for him and his belief in him. The quarrel was sharp, and the two old friends could not agree. Finally the incredible happened: Paul and Barnabas parted company, and each went his separate way from that time forward.

What happened to Barnabas we do not know. But we do know that Barnabas was right about John Mark. Years later we read in more than one letter from Paul that Mark was a real help to him. We find that another great leader, Simon Peter, called Mark his "son." These leaders of the Christian church, though they might differ on some things, agreed about Mark, that he was a man to rely on.

What This Goes to Show

ALL THIS GOES to show several things. For one, it is clear that even an Apostle may be wrong. No man can be an infallible judge of another man. And another thing: You can't judge a man on his record alone. There may be more in the man than the record shows.

On the other hand, people do judge others by their records. The dubious young man does not always have a relative who will give him the benefit of the doubt.

If your record is bad, you must realize that there are numbers of people, even good people, who will judge you by that alone.

Bird Psychiatrists Big Help to Minister In Assaying Visitors

WASHINGTON.—Five featherec psychiatrists have their claws full these days dispensing personal advice at Thomas circle. The four parakeets and one cockateel share an office at National City Christian church with Dr. Warren Hastings, whom they serve as uncanny emotional barometers.

By sound and action from their cage beside his desk, the midget parrots pass the word to the minister about the state of mind of his visitors.

Phony nonchalance is exposed. Such as that of the girl whose calculating fiance had been putting off, putting off the marriage. Despite her apparent calmness, the birds, sensing the inner turmoil set up a terrific chirping. Out came the problem.

In the case of a daughter undecided which of two divorced parents to live with, Dr. Hastings left the girl alone with the mother. Soon the birds were screaming—the mother was chiding the child.

Then he left the girl alone with the father. The parrots chirped happily—good reaction to the way father and child got along.

When a wedding party comes in to see the minister about the arrangements, the birds cluster and the screaming reaches its fiercest: "They're reacting to the upset condition of those people," he explains.

On the other hand, when emotionally serene people are present, the birds sit each on his own perch and raise a chorus lovely to the ear.

Whence comes this insight?

Dr. Hastings doesn't know. He thinks maybe "ether waves."

The birds rank ace high with Dr. Hastings' congregation. When a thief broke into the church, he took the minister's overcoat and killed a parakeet while removing the birds from their cage—for what reason is speculation, maybe to sell.

Scores of parishoners expressed sympathy over the parakeet—"How could anyone be so cruel as to kill that little bird?"

"No one mentioned that $70 overcoat," said Dr. Hastings.

Woman Told of House On Fire Goes to Bed

WASHINGTON.—A woman apparently so sleepy that she went back to bed after being told her house was on fire, was rescued by police and firemen after a second try.

Police were investigating an automobile accident when they saw smoke billowing from the house of Mrs. Collette Schneider, 36-year-old widow, a block away. Mrs. Schneider came to the window, was informed her house was on fire, then went back to bed.

Officers and firemen aroused her a second time, lifted her out the window and asked whether there were any other occupants in the house.

She said that her 10-year-old daughter still was in bed. The rescuers forced their way back into the building and found the bed empty.

Then firemen learned that the mother was mistaken and that the child stayed in a private school and visited only on the week ends.

'Veep' Means Little to Cab Driver Giving Him Direction

NORFOLK, VA.—The "Veep" didn't mean a thing to this man and it happened this way:

When the stout, worried gentleman in the sporty convertible asked cab driver Oscar Osmund the way from Little Creek to Norfolk, he got his answer. Not, however, before Osmund had pressed him into service as an assistant in the greasy job of checking the oil in his cab.

That job accomplished, Osmund led the gentleman and his woman driver to a Norfolk ferry dock. He got $5 for his pains. Then he found out just who the assistant bil checker was.

It was Vice-President Alben Barkley. The driver was Mrs. Barkley. En route to Washington, they had lost their way.

Osmund wasn't impressed.

"Who's Vice-President Barkley?" he asked.

More Phoney Money Pushed In 1949, Report States

WASHINGTON. — Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman has reported public losses from counterfeiting more than tripled from 1948 to 1949, jumping from $190,133 to $651,445.

This marked the highest peak in phoney money deals since 1935 when the public lost a record $1,037,785, he said.

Another $703,423 in bogus bills was seized by Secret Service agents before it could be passed Baughman said in a report to the Secertary of the treasury on 1949 operations.

He reported also an increase in forgeries of treasury checks and savings bonds.

Operations against counterfeiters brought 478 arrests in 1949. Some suspects had not yet been tried, but 273 persons were convicted on counterfeiting charges last year he report said.

Those Who Seek Pirate Treasure Rated as Chumps

WASHINGTON. — This may be throwing a lot of cold water on a lot of heated interest in buried treasure—but according to experts and the record, anyone who goes hunting for pirate gold puts himself in the chump category.

That's the word from Lt. Cmdr. K. D. Ian Murray, formerly of the British merchant marine. He says he has been checking up on pirate lore ever since he first read "Treasure Island."

Murray said that it is quite true that pirate gold exists by the bushel for those lucky enough to find it.

Island Treasure Sites

On the island of Trinidad, for instance, he is pretty sure some 30 million dollars is stacked away. He is pretty sure, too, that plenty is buried on Cocos island, off Central America.

Furthermore, he says, records are fairly complete of ships that have gone down stuffed to the deck with treasure. But this stuff is almost impossible to find. If it is in water, it is now far below the ocean's bottom. If it is on land, the very terrain may have changed so much that even the maps—if they still exist—no longer are any good.

Murray thinks piracy was a pretty good business, back in its day. There have been pirates almost from the time of the first ship. And pirates still exist off the China coast.

The old-time pirate had a strict code, according to Murray, and life wasn't all yo ho ho and a bottle of rum.

One bluenosed pirate, a Capt Roberts, allowed no wine, women or assorted wickedness. And if another ship were captured, Capt. Roberts turned lopse all who could give any one of the Ten Commandments.

One Drawback

Murray points out one drawback to modern treasure hunting: There have been no major developments in the science since the invention of the diving bell and the diving suit.

Of modern inventions, he thinks only the mine detector has many possibilities.

The commander seems to be doing all right. True, on his rambling, he has managed to pick up only a few pieces of pirate gold. But he has been acting as technical adviser on motion pictures of the sea, especially those with a piratical twist.

There is more than one way to skin a cat—and more than one way to get at buried treasure. He didn't say how much he thought was buried in Hollywood.

Wake Island Is Waste Dead Men, Ships, Hope

WAKE ISLAND.—If ghosts bother you, stay away from Wake, for this is an island of dead men and dead ships, of shattered hopes and futile ambitions. Japan's dream of an empire ebbed on its coral shores.

At least 200 Americans were killed defending this lonely Pacific atoll, 98 of them machine gunned by a Japanese execution squad.

More than 3,000 Japanese died here—1,242 of starvation.

Somewhere on Wake, still unfound, is the mass grave of 42 Americans who were buried during the night of Dec. 11, 1941, casualties of the first four days of war.

Dry skulls and bleached bones are scattered under the scrubby green bushes and along the shores of the three square mile island. Unopened brown saki bottles headstone the graves of the otherwise unmarked Japanese dead.

Luxurious transpacific planes settle on runways bordered with the wreckage of Japanese and American fighters who dueled for possession of once important acres now unprotected by a single American rifleman.

Bored passengers, many of them Japanese, sleepily disembark where screaming Japanese charged ashore that fateful night of Dec. 23, 1941, and overran the handful of defenders in a bitter seven hour battle.

Massive concrete blockhouses mushroom out of the coral everywhere, some American built, others Japanese. In them some 4,000 Japanese lived for two hellish years, roasting rats and drinking leaf soup while awaiting starvation and the American bombings.

Egyptian Cemetery Is Found Dating Back 5,000 Years

CAIRO, EGYPT.—A vast cemetery dating back to the old kingdom (3200-2630 B.C.) has been discovered by excavators at El Quatta in the western desert under direction of Abdul Hamada, curator of the Egyptian museum.

This high, rocky site, free from humidity, was eminently suitable for burials. Unfortunately, while the excavations were the first to be undertaken scientifically, many of the tombs had been plundered by modern robbers.
